Dr. Meeuwisse is a Professor and physician at the University of Calgary Sport Medicine Centre in the Faculty of Kinesiology.

He is engaged in research on sport health screening, risk analysis and injury prevention. He is Co-Chair of the Sport Injury Prevention Research Centre in the Faculty of Kinesiology at the University of Calgary, which is one of 9 international members of the International Olympic Committee Medical Research Network. He is a founding member of the Concussion in Sport Group and Co-Chaired the 4th International Consensus Conference on Concussion in Sport.

His clinical responsibilities range from recreational to elite athletes. He is the Co-Chair of the National Hockey League NHL/NHLPA Joint Health and Safety Committee. He currently serves as a Senior Associate Editor of the British Journal of Sports Medicine -Injury Prevention and Health Protection.

Peer reviewed publications

64. Meeuwisse WH, Benson BW. “Sport-Related Head Injuries: When can your patient go back to the sport?” Canadian Journal of Diagnosis 71-74, 2005.

   - PM&R 3(7):605-12, 2011.

