Sharon Iversen, RN, MCE, Bereavement Educator

Siblings help us know ourselves... they offer a mirror to our uniqueness as an individual and as a family. In this program you will meet three people who have experienced the death of a sibling. When a sibling dies, a shared history is lost and the family is disrupted. The death challenges the family to exist in new ways... ways that remember and honour the life of the loved one.

In this program the following topics are explored.

- ❖ what happened
- ❖ early days
- ❖ family dynamics
- ❖ guilt and anger
- ❖ what might help
- ❖ ongoing connections

This program will be helpful to bereaved siblings and to other family members, friends and healthcare workers to gain insight into the experience of the death of a sibling.
