McGill-Queen's/Associated Medical Services Studies in the History of Medicine, Health, and Society | Series editors: J.T.H. Connor and Erika Dyck

This series presents books in the history of medicine, health studies, and social policy, exploring interactions between the institutions, ideas, and practices of medicine and those of society as a whole. To begin to understand these complex relationships and their history is a vital step to ensuring the protection of a fundamental human right: the right to health.

About the Press

McGill-Queen's University Press is a scholarly publisher with over 3,000 books in print and numerous awards and bestsellers. Our goal is to produce peer-reviewed, rigorously edited, beautifully produced, intelligent, interesting books. A Canadian university press with a global reach, we aim to advance scholarship, promote public debate, and contribute to culture. Now with editorial offices in Montreal, Kingston, and the UK.
