How do I know who my Academic Advisor is?

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

- If you look on your department website (e.g. Department of Economics), there will be a contact for graduate advising. They can answer your program advising questions.

- Undergraduate students can go to their Faculty website (e.g. Faculty of Science) to contact a program advisor.

- Students looking for advising related to study skills, changing their major, or general advice can contact the Student Success Centre and book with an academic development specialist.
Online courses

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

- If I have to take class online, then how do I register? Do I have to talk to my course supervisor?

  You will register through your Student Centre in the same way you registered for in-person classes. If an in-person class has been changed to an online delivery, you will still be enrolled. You may want to discuss your course selection with your supervisor if you are unsure of the need for a particular course.

- How I will know that a course is offered online or strictly in-person when I am not able to reach Calgary before classes start on 7th September?

  The delivery of the course will be listed in your schedule of courses in your Student Centre. You will see this when you are searching course registration lists as well. Online courses will be designated as “web-based only”. In person courses will have an assigned room number.

- What if students are waitlisted in a course that is online? What to do if we don’t get a position in a specific course that is online? I will be arriving in first week of October?

  Continue to monitor your place in the waitlist. Once classes begin, the waitlist will be closed and you can again try to register until the drop/add deadline (September 16). The process is the same for both in-person and online courses. Speak with your faculty if you are not able to get a place in the course by the beginning of classes. It may be possible to request an overload into a required course under some circumstances.
How can we form study groups or join study groups when we are attending web-based courses?

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

- There are opportunities to connect with other students in the class through D2L and some instructors also facilitate the formation of study groups. As well, Student Success runs online peer-assisted study sessions and virtual study sessions. Check the Student Success website for more information (https://www.ucalgary.ca/student-services/student-success/learning/study-group-program)
How do I actually navigate my class. I mean is there a map or something for new students?

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

- There are campus maps and interactive room finder map available online: https://live-ucalgary.ucalgary.ca/about/our-campuses/campus-maps-and-room-finder. As well, you will see maps on the campus grounds and can ask at campus offices or information kiosks for directions. You will see staff and student support people with Ask Me buttons on campus in the first week of classes as well.
Attending classes

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

What should I do if I have in-person classes, but I can't make it to campus in time?

- It is important to attend in-person classes. If you are late occasionally (e.g. missed bus), then come into the class quietly and hear as much of the lecture as possible. You may want to arrange to get missed notes from another student or see if the instructor has posted slides, notes, or recordings in D2L. If you will be consistently late or unable to attend a class, speak with the instructor.

Can we choose to take the classes online even though they say that they are offered in person?

- No, in person classes are not consistently set up as recorded lectures and classrooms may not have the technology for you to attend remotely.

Can we opt online for Winter 2022 semester?

- There may be classes you can take online in Winter, but this will depend on your program and course choices. You can try to choose online delivery where possible and see if you are able to do that semester online.
Can we use our preferred name on class list, d2l, etc... instead of the legal name?

- Yes, you can update your personal information through the Personal Information section of your MyUCalgary Student Centre (https://www.ucalgary.ca/registrar/student-centre/updating-personal-information).

How can I find information about courses that haven't appeared in D2L?

- Many department websites have a list of their current courses with course outlines attached.
Do you have any study tips?

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

Some basic tips:

• Prepare before your lectures by reading your text, going over slides etc.
• Attend all your lectures and tutorials in full, whether online or in person.
• Review your notes after the lecture and test yourself on the material.
• Start assignments and studying early and do not do your work at the last minute.
• And get help and supports throughout the term. Come to see us at Student Success and attend study skills workshops to get started.
How much time would you spend studying, if you have 5 courses per term? (say, for every week)

- The time needed for your classes will vary from week to week, depending on your exams and assignments. It is also a heavier time commitment in certain classes and programs. However, a good rule to begin is that for each hour of lecture, expect to spend another three hours outside of class time. That means that for five courses, you could spend up to 45 hours each week to complete readings, review notes, do assignments, and study.

How to maintain balance between part time jobs, studies, volunteering, and social life:

- Use your course outlines to plan a study schedule around major exams and assignments. Then schedule in your other activities, noting the time commitment for each. Be realistic about your energy to work and study – e.g. don’t plan to do assignments in the middle of the night. Review your schedule weekly and see what needs to be adjusted.
How should we spend our time in between the lectures? And if our classes start at 1 p.m, can we come to campus before that for self-study or club activities etc.?

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

- Using time between lectures to do your assigned readings and to review notes or work on assignments is a good use of time. It can also be a time to go to club meetings, volunteer, exercise, eat a meal, or socialize with other students.
- Try to find a balance of activities and academic work, so that you do not feel burned out and are able to maintain good physical and mental health.
- You can be on campus throughout the day, whether you are in class or not.
Are online courses in form of recorded videos or live classes?

Answer provided by Jennifer Parsons, Student Success Centre

- If a class does not have any time assigned in your Student Centre schedule, it is asynchronous, which means it is only a recording. If there is a time listed, it will be synchronous (live online at a particular time). It is possible that a synchronous class will also be recorded. This will depend on the individual instructor.

- Be sure that this is clear to you from the first day of classes. It will be explained in your D2L course information or course outline and the instructor will likely address it on the first day of class.
